

UPS Sales Up Everywhere Except EMEA

Written by Marco Attard
29 December 2010

This year's EMEA UPS revenues remain the same as 2009's, IMS Research reports.

Globally, the UPS market's Q3 2010 is 12.9% higher than Q3 2009, thanks to strong sales in Asia and the Americas.

Europe's debt crisis hampers its revival in the region. Exchange rate changes also hit the market to some extent.

Asian sales are what drives the recovery globally, with the region's global market share clocking to 33%.

Go UPS Market Returns to Double-Digit Growth Globally