

Security Markets Feel Rebound

Written by Marco Attard
07 September 2011

---

The global content security gateway appliance and software market grows by 8% Q-o-Q in Q2 2011, reaching revenues of $766M according to Infonetics Research-- a typical rebound following a seasonally soft Q1.

The market also shows Y-o-Y growth of 18% in Q2 2011, and has a total value of $2.7Bn for 2010 (up by 19% from 2009)-- with the analyst predicting it will grow to $3.9Bn by 2015.

Meanwhile the WW Q2 2011 network security appliance and software market grows by 4% Y-o-Y, reaching $1.37Bn-- with no signs of slowdown for H2 2011, at least when it comes to major threat publicity (most notable of which being Anonymous).

Cisco keeps its lead in the overall network security market, making nearly 33% of overall revenues. Following are Check Point and Juniper.

Infonetics forecasts the global network security market to show overall 4% Y-o-Y growth in 2011.

Go Infonetics Security Market Reports

Security Markets Feel Rebound

Written by Marco Attard
07 September 2011

---