antispameurope Becomes Hornetsecurity

Written by Marco Attard
23 January 2015

German security MSP antispameurope announces a corporate identity revamp-- it now calls itself Hornetsecurity and presents a "fresher, more modern appearance."

Founded in 2007, the renamed company counts 26000 customers and has a network of over 450 partners, around 300 of which based in Germany, Austria and Switzerland. It offers a range of cloud-based security products, including email solutions such as spam filtering, archiving, continuity and archiving.

"By changing our name, we reacted to our growing product portfolio and our strategic expansion into new markets and countries", the company says. "On the other hand, we focus with the new website increasingly on current trends such as consumerisation of IT and usability, including on-the-go."

Hornetsecurity also plans to move to bigger offices, as it plans to expand its workforce as part of further expansion plans.

Go antispameurope is Changing its Name to Hornetsecurity