We told you so last December: now Avaya has actually signed an agreement to acquire Radvision for $230 million.

Upon closing, Radvision's enterprise video infrastructure and endpoints will be integrated with Avaya Aura Unified Communications platform.

"...With this acquisition we will seek to extend videoconferencing to any device, anytime, anywhere, making it as easy as a phone call, seizing the opportunity to deliver a fully-integrated solution and architecture that we believe sets us apart from the competition," says Kevin Kennedy , president and CEO, Avaya.

This move is part of the arms race as Tier 1 companies weapon-up to fight the Final Battle in unified communications.
