

Remote Desktop Software Gets Update

ISL Online releases version 3.3 of its ISL Light remote desktop support software, introducing a turbo sharing feature.

The new version offers x2 main settings for desktop sharing-- "high speed" and "best quality" (allows users to share HD content, including multimedia software, videos and CAD).

It also makes session starting easier, by sending a session code as a link to the client via email.

The update is free for all existing SaaS and Server License users, while a free trial is available on ISL's website.
