

Epson Certifies Scanners for Digitech Services

Written by Alice Marshall
23 March 2018

Two Epson scanner series-- the WorkForce DS-770 and DS 575W Wireless-- are now certified to work with Digitech Systems content management applications, providing means for customers to further organise their paper workflow.

The certification comes as part of a partnership between the two companies, and covers Digitech information management software and cloud services. Thus, resellers can take advantage of special combined solution packages to solve more complex information challenges for businesses.

Digitech offers two applications compatible with Epson scanners-- Paper Vision Capture (advanced capture) and PaperFlow (desktop scanning). Paper Vision Capture allows customers to easily upload scanned documents to the on-premise PaperVision Enterprise Enterprise Content Management (ECM) system or to the cloud-based ImageSilo ECM service. Meanwhile the PaperVision AI-enabled classification and data extraction tool automatically identifies and extracts key data.

The combination of the two applications virtually eliminates manual data entry, and provides access to information previously trapped in paper files across any device. Customers can automate business processes such as accounts payable and human resources by sending extracted data to line-of-business applications. PaperVision Enterprise WorkFlow can also automate the flow of documents through review and approval processes, bringing about a fully automated business.

The Epson DS-770 and DS575W colour document scanners are workgroup sheet-fed scanners with varied feature sets. Designed for markets ranging from insurance and legal to healthcare and finance, they deliver scanning speeds of up to 35ppm/70ipm and 45ppm/90ipm, with robust duty cycles and a built-in Automatic Document Feeder (ADF) able to hold up to 50 and 100 pages. TWAIN and ISIS drivers provide seamless integration with 3rd party document management software, and the DS-575W also includes wireless capabilities for scanning to smartphones, tablets or online storage accounts.

Epson Certifies Scanners for Digitech Services

Written by Alice Marshall
23 March 2018

Go Document Services Opportunities Expand With Epson Partnership